

Answer on Question #58404 – Biology – Molecular biology

Ionic bond is formed between potassium ion and chlorine. It is a result of static attraction between positive charged ion (potassium) and negative charged ion (chlorine).

