

Question #70772, Biology / Cell Biology

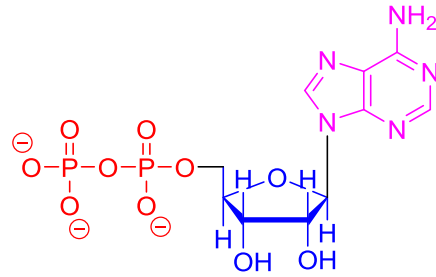

how are atp and adp related ?

Answer:

ATP and ADP are molecules used by cell to accumulate and produce energy. Both molecules are consist of three parts: heterocyclic ring (nucleobase), a five-carbon sugar and phosphates as well.

ATP

ADP

One can be converted into another in the cell:

