

The result of mixing sulphur with copper powder is Copper monosulfide:

CuS is a black colloidal precipitate. Copper monosulfide is a chemical compound of copper and sulfur. It occurs in nature as the dark indigo blue mineral covellite. It is a moderate conductor of electricity.