

Question #47864, Chemistry, Physical Chemistry

why the shared electrons are more attracted by Flourine in HF than hydrogen??

Answer:

Because Fluorine has a higher electronegativity than Hydrogen.

$E_F=4$; $E_H=2.1$.

$$E_F \gg E_H$$