

Question #57708, Chemistry / Organic Chemistry

When silver nitrate reacts with carbonyl compound in the presence of ammonia, this produces a solid. What is that solid compound?

Answer:

It is an oxidation reaction, it occurs when aldehyde is oxidized by diamminesilver hydroxide (Tollens' reagent), and reduced silver forms grayish precipitate:

