

Question #60568, Chemistry, Other

Difference between flashing and splashing.

Answer:

'Flashing' means passing a volatile substance through a heated, low pressure container- which causes a part of it to convert to the gaseous phase.

Splashing is causing to scatter fluid in flying masses.