

Answer on Question #82922 - Chemistry - Physical Chemistry

Question:

Is activation energy is temperature independent?

Solution:

Each chemical reaction has its own E_a (not dependent on temperature). As the temperature increases, the activation barrier E_a and the heat effect of the Q reaction do not change, but the rate of the chemical reaction increases.

Answer provided by www.AssignmentExpert.com