

Answer on Question #38018 – Economics - Macroeconomics

If money supply rises, the inflation rises too, so the prices for goods and services also rise. But as the value of money decreases, people buy more goods and services.