

Answer on Question #38526, Economics, Other

The Current account on the Balance of payments measures the balance of trade in goods and services. The current account is equal to the difference between savings and investment. So, Gross investment plus balance of current account is BOP equals to national savings.