

Hormone free dairy milk has been found to be potentially more healthy. Consider the market for this product in south africa and answer the question?

explain and show graphically how this market would be affected if there is an increase in the number of dairy farmers that produce hormone free milk and at the same time south african consumers chose to be more healthy

Increasing of quantity of farmers actually means increasing of suppliers that will lead to changing in Aggregate Supply

If also quantity of consumers increase than it also increase aggregate demand
