

Answer on Question 37675, Math, Other Function is correspondence between argument and value of function. There are n possible x and y possible y that correspond to them. Hence, number of function is:

$$n \times n = n^2$$