

Answer on Question #80973 – Math – Geometry

Question

What is the difference between concave and convex polygon?

Solution

For a polygon to be convex, all its interior angles must be less than 180 degrees. If at least one interior angle of the polygon is greater than 180 degrees, then the polygon is concave.

Answer provided by <https://www.AssignmentExpert.com>