

Answer on Question #47007, Physics, Optics

The property of light waves that determines its brightness is its ----- wavelength

velocity

frequency

amplitude

Brightness could depend on the wavelength (and thus frequency), but the amplitude of the electromagnetic wave is the value which generates intensity and thus brightness.