

Answer on question #52759, Physics, Optics

Question The speed of light in glass is approximately ———- that in air 100 times faster than 100 times slower than
50 per cent faster than 33 percent slower than

Solution The speed of light in glass is approximately 33 percent slower than that in air, because refractive index is approximatively 33 larger then that in air.