1 A fourth generation computer is recognized for its use of

Large Scale

circuit

Transistors

None of the options

Answer

The computers of fourth generation used Very Large Scale Integrated (VLSI) circuits.

2 Motherboard is responsible for the direct and indirect interconnection of computer devices.

ROM

Main memory

Motherboard

Computer cables

Answer

The motherboard as the name implies, provides the ability to interconnect directly or indirectly all the other computer devices, and every computer has a motherboard.

3 The device that communicates with computer and interprets the data on a storage media is called drive.

Drive

Keyboard

Chip

Memory

Answer

A drive is simply a device that communicates with the computer and interprets the data on the storage media associated with the drive.

4 In an effort to sort the allowance of staff using a computer, what part of the CPU is responsible for that?

System unit

Binary unit

Control unit

Arithmetic Logic unit

Answer

Arithmetical Logical Unit, responsible for all mathematical and logical operations.

5 The Central Unit part of a Central Processing Unit operates in what is called the Fetch-execute cycle.

Execute-fetch

Execute

Instruction

Fetch-execute

Answer

The fetch-execute cycle of the processor refers to the sequence that is completed for each instruction in a program.